Davey Signs Relief Bill

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—(UP)—Governor Davey today signed the Huml bill, most important measure in the poor relief program enacted by the present special legislative session, and center of the major part of the battling between the senate and house during consideration of relief legislation.

The bill levies an excise tax of .65 of one percent on public utilities for two years commencing Feb. 1 for relief purposes, and appropriates for relief the revenue from the present amusement admissions, beer, malt and wort taxes.

The revenues from all the taxes included in the bill are allocated among the counties on the basis of their comparative tax duplicates.

Because none of the revenue from the utility tax will be collected until next year, the new act authorizes the counties to borrow up to 90 percent of the estimated tax yield for this year.

It was estimated that the act will make available approximately $4,100,000 a year for relief purposes.

As originally introduced and passed by the house, the measure provided for a one percent utility excise tax, but this was cut by the senate which forced the house to agree to the .65 of one percent rate. The senate also cut the beer tax from one-half to one-fourth cent per bottle.

He Prefers Jail

STILL determined to "rot in jail" rather than permit vaccination of his 8-year-old son, John T. Marsh, 40-year-old farmer-laborer of Carlisle, Pa., departs from the office of a justice of the peace following renewal for 50 days of his commitment in the Cumberland county jail. Marsh has been in jail since last November despite the fact his wife and eight children have been threatened with hunger and privation. State law requires all students be vaccinated. Each additional day Marsh prolongs the vaccination he automatically increases his jail sentence by five days.

MONEY FOR NAVY WINS APPROVAL FROM SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(UP)—The senate appropriations committee today reported to the senate the $549,227,842 house-approved naval appropriations bill which provides approximately $138,000,000 for construction of naval vessels.

The senate committee added $32,348 to the house bill, which called for $18,422,100 for new warships and $119,641,050 for continuation of construction already started. Twenty four ships are involved, including two battleships, two cruisers, eight destroyers and six submarines.

The bill exceeded the 1938 appropriations by $32,648,534 but was $15,178,619 under the budget estimates for 1939.

CLARKSBURG GIRL PLACED IN "IRON LUNG" IS FAIR

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—(UP)—Mildred Lucille McDonald, 14, Clarksburg, second patient to be confined in the "iron lung" at University hospital here, was reported as "fair" by hospital attaches today.

The child was brought to the hospital yesterday suffering from infantile paralysis. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, Clarksburg. The mechanical respirator, purchased with funds acquired from the annual President's Birthday Ball, was first used at the hospital last Fall in treatment of Dorothy Weed, 7, Vinton county, who died six weeks after her release from the "iron lung" of pneumonia.

SHOW SOCIETY TO RE-ORGANIZE

Cady To Appoint Three; Future Policies To Be Determined

Organization meeting of Circleville Pumpkin Show society directors will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the city council chamber.

Mayor W. B. Cady, president exofficio of the organization, plans to name three directors at the session. A vice president and treasurer will be named. George E. Roth was recently appointed secretary to succeed Mack Parrett, Jr., resigned.

In addition to the organization of the society, one of the major issues to be discussed will be the refusal of the state department of agriculture to grant $800 to the society for the 1937 show. The state department contends that directors should be named by members of the organization. Members are those who contribute to the annual festival. The policy followed by the society since its organization has been for the mayor to name directors.

Committee Investigating Gasoline Purchases

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—(UP)—With administration forces in the legislature pressing for adjournment Feb. 10, the special senate investigating committee called for renewed support in its effort to expose alleged wrongdoing in state government and subpenaed G. Lloyd Weil, former Akron mayor, for questioning in connection with state purchases.

Weil was directed to appear before the senate inquisitors today. Recently on the floor of the house of representatives Rep. Gus Kasch, (D), Summit, charged he had information from State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson that Weil had irregular dealings connected with the state's purchase of gasoline.

Sen. J. Ralph Seidner, committee chairman, demanded that the house appropriate funds for continuance of the inquiry.

Disclosures Cited

"Important disclosures have been made to the people of Ohio within the brief period covered by the activities of this committee," he said, "with the result that it is already felt that the practice of paying commissions and percentages on business done with the state has virtually ceased."

Halted In House

The senate voted $40,000 for the committee's expenses, but the appropriation measure was sidetracked by the house finance committee. It proposed a joint house and senate commission to carry out an inquiry along lines of Governor Davey's proposed investigation of "everything and everybody."

Proponents of a continued inquiry suffered a setback, when a house Democratic caucus voted 53 to 11 for a sine die adjournment, of the general assembly Feb. 10.

Two Vessels Seek Aid in Ocean Gale

BOSTON, Jan. 26 — (UP) — Rescue vessels sped to the aid of two ships in distress in the gale-lashed North Atlantic today.

The coast guard cutter Cayuga was ordered from Provincetown, Mass., to aid the steam trawler Ripple, adrift with a crew of 20 men 50 miles east of Provincetown. The vessel sent an "SOS" yesterday, rescinded it last night, but sent a second one early today.

The sea-going tug Foundation put out from Halifax, N. S., to aid the British freighter Pencarrow, adrift with a damaged propellor about 110 miles south of Halifax. The Pencarrow cancelled an "SOS" after her master had been notified that the Foundation was en route.

A boiler leak first disabled the Ripple, and she drifted for about 27 hours while the coast guard sought to aid her. She reported last night that the leak had been repaired, and that she was proceeding to Georges bank fishing ground. Capt. Sewall Connors, her master, reported in a second "SOS," intercepted by the coast guard at 5:26 a. m. (EST) that her engine was disabled.

The Pencarrow, a vessel of 4,841 tons operated by the Chellew Navigation company, Ltd., out of Falmouth, Eng., reported that she was drifting, "in ballast." The Foundation radioed that she would reach her by noon.

The Ripple, a 301-ton trawler built at Superior, Wis., in 1918, is owned by the Bay State Fishing company.

Mayor Indicted

INDICTMENT charging him with soliciting a bribe from the Florida Power and Light Co. has been returned by a special grand jury against Mayor Robert R. Williams of Miami, Fla., above. Two other city commissioners and a special rate expert also were indicted on the same charges. Mayor Williams took office last May.

TRAPPED SCHOOL CHILDREN ENJOY THEIR HOLIDAY

IRONWOOD, Mich., Jan. 26 — (UP) — Sandwiches and legs of ham took the place of books on teachers' desks in the Roosevelt school near here today as 33 high school boys made a Winter holiday of a storm which piled 30 foot drifts around them.

Big white cans of milk brought on skis to the stranded boys by neighboring Finnish farmers stood in a row beneath a blackboard which still bore a chalk-lined problem in geometry.

Four girls who sought shelter with the boys when two school buses were caught in a blizzard Monday night were taken on skiis to nearby farmhouses.

Farmers of this Finnish community struggled over the mountainous drifts on skiis and dragged toboggan loads of food and milk to the 33 boys and two C.C.C. camp workers left in the school building.

George W. Koronski, county road superintendent, described the rugged school house where the boys were encamped in plenty and comfort.

"Those kids are having a swell time," Koronski said. "They're just monkeying around, playing basketball — the school has a fine gym — and raising cain."

"They'll probably go home today," he said. "They're all Finns and they feel more at home on skiis than most kids do on the hard ground.

"The farmers around there plan to take a lot of skiis to the school this afternoon and let the kids go home on them."

Mine Unions Would Draft F. D. R. for Another Term

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(UP)—Local unions from three states today presented eight resolutions urging that President Roosevelt be drafted for a third term to the 35th convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

Scores of resolutions from locals of John L. Lewis' own organization urged greater efforts to re-unite the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial organization. Other resolutions however, endorsed the C.I.O.'s position in peace negotiations with the federation.

One resolution, presented by a Hanna, Wyo., local, demanded a rank-and-file referendum before further U.M.W.A. funds are expended in the C.I.O. drive. U.M.W.A. auditors reported yesterday the miners loaned C.I.O. groups at least $1,200,000 between June 1 and Nov. 30, 1937.

Echoing Lewis' description of Mr. Roosevelt as "the only President who has given the common people a square deal," the third term resolutions were submitted by unions from Royal, Pa., Avella, Pa., New Salem, Pa., Uniontown, Ky., Rivesville, W. Va., Everettville, W. Va., Scottsdale, W. Va., and Lochgelly, W. Va.

One resolution said: "We feel that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the present administration are doing all in their power to uplift the moral and earning power of the laboring class and we feel that in the next two years of the present administration it will be impossible to pass the necessary legislation for the benefit of the working class."

The resolutions were among the 2,172 proposed by U.M.W.A. locals. They were referred to the resolutions committee for study.

The U.M.W.A., which claims approximately 600,000 members and is the nation's largest labor union, endorsed Mr. Roosevelt for a second term at its 1936 convention and contributed heavily to the Democratic campaign two years ago.

FEBRUARY 2 SET FOR F. D. PARLEY WITH 500 MEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(UP) — Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper announced today the administration's recovery conference with 500 small businessmen will be held Feb. 2.

The businessmen will confer on methods of obtaining business recovery and will select representatives to meet with President Roosevelt.

It was expected they will consider Mr. Roosevelt's statement opposing wage reductions and suggesting mass-production industry price cuts.

The President accompanied his statement with an intimation that new pump-priming expenditures will be necessary if business cuts wages this Winter and Spring. He declared that the administration will be forced to adopt policies to increase national purchasing power if wage cuts become general.

Roper said invitations to the business session will be sent to 500 persons who have written President Roosevelt suggesting a meeting with administration officials to formulate a recovery program which would take into consideration the "little fellow" in business and industry.

Government Forecaster Says Blizzard Moving Slowly Over Lake Huron

MIDWEST STATES SUFFER

Northern Michigan Blocked By Deep Snows

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 26—(UP)—The Falls View bridge, spanning the Niagara river 1,000 feet below the mighty cataracts, began breaking up today under the pressure of the worst ice jam in history.

BY UNITED PRESS

A driving blizzard, sweeping over the North Central states from the Arctic regions, extended its force today and sheathed half the nation with gripping ice and snow.

Mishaps caused by floods in the Middlewest and near zero temperatures and drifts throughout the Great Lakes region caused at least six deaths in three states.

The blizzard, centered across the upper Michigan peninsula, spent its fury into Wisconsin and Iowa. The biting winds, sometimes reaching a velocity of 50 miles an hour, piled 30-foot drifts across highways in Michigan and isolated hundreds of families.

Additional suffering was caused by freezing flood waters in Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa. In the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles and Western Kansas, raging dust storms uprooted Winter wheat fields. Through the South, frost and high winds threatened damage to orchards and crops.

Although the biting cold brought new hardships to families forced to flee lowland homes in the tri-state flood area, it ended temporarily the danger of more serious overflows.

TEMPERATURE AT SEVEN

Circleville's lowest temperature Wednesday was seven degrees. The reading announced by Dr. H. R. Clarke, weatherman, was the same as that registered in Columbus at 5 a. m.

Fifty children were marooned by snowdrifts in a high school five miles from Ironwood, Mich. Near Marquette, Mich., other children were reported taking refuge in a farmhouse after their school bus was trapped by rising snows.

"Severe" Wave Predicted

U. S. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted a "severe" cold wave for the entire Middlewest. The storm was centered over Northern Lake Huron and was moving slowly. He forecast continued snowstorms in all Northern states from the Mississippi to the Atlantic seaboard. Heaviest snow fall was expected in Pennsylvania and New York, he said.

At Lansing, Mich., Gov. Frank Murphy expressed alarm as he received reports of the storm's fury—marooning lake ships and automobiles, isolating farms and villages, forcing shutdown of schools and mines.

"We must not permit this to become a catastrophe," he said. "The main thing is to get some help.

OVERDOSE OF MEDICINE FATAL TO COUNTY WOMAN

Mrs. Mary E. Trimmer, 66, of Tarlton, died while enroute to Berger hospital in an ambulance, Tuesday, for treatment for an overdose of heart tablets containing strychnine.

Mrs. Trimmer was the widow of T. D. Trimmer. She was born in Tarlton, Nov. 2, 1871, the daughter of Robert and Isabelle Roose Roberts. One brother, Moody Roberts, survives.

She was a member of the Circleville chapter Daughters of Union Veterans.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Presbyterian church in Tarlton with the Rev. Samuel C. Elsea officiating. Burial will be in the Tarlton cemetery in charge of H. E. Defenbaugh & Son.

School Offers Highway Safety Program

An elective course in highway safety education will be offered to Circleville high school pupils within the next week.

Robert Terhune, principal of the high school, and Miller Fissell, deputy sheriff, are completing plans for the course this week after Terhune's suggestion that it be attempted.

Although highway safety has been featured in the schools, the principal and officer plan to give pupils an opportunity to put into practice the things they have been taught. The social civics class devotes each Monday to safety.

Using Mr. Terhune's auto, the pupils will be taught the parts of the car that should be periodically checked for safety, the proper methods of driving, hand signals, speed, and all other features of a complete highway safety program. The course will be an extra-curricular activity.

Circleville high is believed to be one of the few in Central Ohio offering its pupils highway safety instruction.

The bill levies an excise tax of .65 of one percent on public utilities for two years commencing Feb. 1 for relief purposes, and appropriates for relief the revenue from the present amusement admissions, beer, malt and wort taxes.

As originally introduced and passed by the house, the measure provided for a one percent utility excise tax, but this was cut by the senate which forced the house to agree to the .65 of one percent rate. The senate also cut the beer tax from one-half to one-fourth cent per bottle.

Two Vessels Seek Aid in Ocean Gale

BOSTON, Jan. 26 — (UP) — Rescue vessels sped to the aid of two ships in distress in the gale-lashed North Atlantic today.

The coast guard cutter Cayuga was ordered from Provincetown, Mass., to aid the steam trawler Ripple, adrift with a crew of 20 men 50 miles east of Provincetown. The vessel sent an "SOS" yesterday, rescinded it last night, but sent a second one early today.

The sea-going tug Foundation put out from Halifax, N. S., to aid the British freighter Pencarrow, adrift with a damaged propellor about 110 miles south of Halifax. The Pencarrow cancelled an "SOS" after her master had been notified that the Foundation was en route.

A boiler leak first disabled the Ripple, and she drifted for about 27 hours while the coast guard sought to aid her. She reported last night that the leak had been repaired, and that she was proceeding to Georges bank fishing ground. Capt. Sewall Connors, her master, reported in a second "SOS," intercepted by the coast guard at 5:26 a. m. (EST) that her engine was disabled.

The Pencarrow, a vessel of 4,841 tons operated by the Chellew Navigation company, Ltd., out of Falmouth, Eng., reported that she was drifting. "in ballast." The Foundation radioed that she would reach her by noon.

The Ripple, a 301-ton trawler built at Superior, Wis., in 1918, is owned by the Bay State Fishing company.

TRAPPED SCHOOL CHILDREN ENJOY THEIR HOLIDAY

IRONWOOD, Mich., Jan. 26 — (UP) — Sandwiches and legs of ham took the place of books on teachers' desks in the Roosevelt school near here today as 33 high school boys made a Winter holiday of a storm which piled 30 foot drifts around them.

Big white cans of milk brought on skis to the stranded boys by neighboring Finnish farmers stood in a row beneath a blackboard which still bore a chalk-lined problem in geometry.

Four girls who sought shelter with the boys when two school buses were caught in a blizzard Monday night were taken on skiis to nearby farmhouses.

Farmers of this Finnish community struggled over the mountainous drifts on skiis and dragged toboggan loads of food and milk to the 33 boys and two C.C.C. camp workers left in the school building.

George W. Koronski, county road superintendent, described the rugged school house where the boys were encamped in plenty and comfort.

"Those kids are having a swell time," Koronski said. "They're just monkeying around, playing basketball — the school has a fine gym — and raising cain."

"They'll probably go home today," he said. "They're all Finns and they feel more at home on skiis than most kids do on the hard ground.

"The farmers around there plan to take a lot of skiis to the school this afternoon and let the kids go home on them."

Mine Unions Would Draft F. D. R. for Another Term

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(UP)—Local unions from three states today presented eight resolutions urging that President Roosevelt be drafted for a third term to the 35th convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

Scores of resolutions from locals of John L. Lewis' own organization urged greater efforts to re-unite the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial organization. Other resolutions however, endorsed the C.I.O.'s position in peace negotiations with the federation.

One resolution, presented by a Hanna, Wyo., local, demanded a rank-and-file referendum before further U.M.W.A. funds are expended in the C. I. O. drive. U.M.W.A. auditors reported yesterday the miners loaned C.I.O. groups at least $1,200,000 between June 1 and Nov. 30, 1937.

Echoing Lewis' description of Mr. Roosevelt as "the only President who has given the common people a square deal," the third term resolutions were submitted by unions from Royal, Pa., Avella, Pa., New Salem, Pa., Uniontown, Ky., Rivesville, W. Va., Everettville, W. Va., Scottsdale, W. Va., and Lochgelly, W. Va.

One resolution said: "We feel that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the present administration are doing all in their power to uplift the moral and earning power of the laboring class and we feel that in the next two years of the present administration it will be impossible to pass the necessary legislation for the benefit of the working class."

The resolutions were among the 2,172 proposed by U.M.W.A. locals. They were referred to the resolutions committee for study.

The U.M.W.A., which claims approximately 600,000 members and is the nation's largest labor union, endorsed Mr. Roosevelt for a second term at its 1936 convention and contributed heavily to the Democratic campaign two years ago.

FEBRUARY 2 SET FOR F. D. PARLEY WITH 500 MEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(UP) — Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper announced today the administration's recovery conference with 500 small businessmen will be held Feb. 2.

The businessmen will confer on methods of obtaining business recovery and will select representatives to meet with President Roosevelt.

It was expected they will consider Mr. Roosevelt's statement opposing wage reductions and suggesting mass-production industry price cuts.

The President accompanied his statement with an intimation that new pump-priming expenditures will be necessary if business cuts wages this Winter and Spring. He declared that the administration will be forced to adopt policies to increase national purchasing power if wage cuts become general.

Roper said invitations to the business session will be sent to 500 persons who have written President Roosevelt suggesting a meeting with administration officials to formulate a recovery program which would take into consideration the "little fellow" in business and industry.

WAVE EXPECTED TO CONTINUE IN CENTRAL REGION

Government Forecaster Says Blizzard Moving Slowly Over Lake Huron

MIDWEST STATES SUFFER

Northern Michigan Blocked By Deep Snows

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 26—(UP)—The Falls View bridge, spanning the Niagara river 1,000 feet below the mighty cataracts, began breaking up today under the pressure of the worst ice jam in history.

BY UNITED PRESS

A driving blizzard, sweeping over the North Central states from the Arctic regions, extended its force today and sheathed half the nation with gripping ice and snow.

Mishaps caused by floods in the Middlewest and near zero temperatures and drifts throughout the Great Lakes region caused at least six deaths in three states.

The blizzard, centered across the upper Michigan peninsula, spent its fury into Wisconsin and Iowa. The biting winds, sometimes reaching a velocity of 50 miles an hour, piled 30-foot drifts across highways in Michigan and isolated hundreds of families.

Additional suffering was caused by freezing flood waters in Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa. In the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles and Western Kansas, raging dust storms uprooted Winter wheat fields. Through the South, frost and high winds threatened damage to orchards and crops.

Although the biting cold brought new hardships to families forced to flee lowland homes in the tri-state flood area, it ended temporarily the danger of more serious overflows.

Fifty children were marooned by snowdrifts in a high school five miles from Ironwood, Mich. Near Marquette, Mich., other children were reported taking refuge in a farmhouse after their school bus was trapped by rising snows.

"Severe" Wave Predicted

U. S. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted a "severe" cold wave for the entire Middlewest. The storm was centered over Northern Lake Huron and was moving slowly. He forecast continued snowstorms in all Northern states from the Mississippi to the Atlantic seaboard. Heaviest snow fall was expected in Pennsylvania and New York, he said.

At Lansing, Mich., Gov. Frank Murphy expressed alarm as he received reports of the storm's fury—marooning lake ships and automobiles, isolating farms and villages, forcing shutdown of schools and mines.

"We must not permit this to become a catastrophe," he said. "The main thing is to get some help.

OVERDOSE OF MEDICINE FATAL TO COUNTY WOMAN

Mrs. Mary E. Trimmer, 66, of Tarlton, died while enroute to Berger hospital in an ambulance, Tuesday, for treatment for an overdose of heart tablets containing strychnine.

Mrs. Trimmer was the widow of T. D. Trimmer. She was born in Tarlton, Nov. 2, 1871, the daughter of Robert and Isabella Roose Roberts. One brother, Moody Roberts, survives.

She was a member of the Circleville chapter Daughters of Union Veterans.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Presbyterian church in Tarlton with the Rev. Samuel C. Elsea officiating. Burial will be in the Tarlton cemetery in charge of H. E. Defenbaugh & Son.

School Offers Highway Safety Program

An elective course in highway safety education will be offered to Circleville high school pupils within the next week.

Robert Terhune, principal of the high school, and Miller Fissell, deputy sheriff, are completing plans for the course this week after Terhune's suggestion that it be attempted.

Although highway safety has been featured in the schools, the principal and officer plan to give pupils an opportunity to put into practice the things they have been taught. The social civics class devotes each Monday to safety.

Using Mr. Terhune's auto, the pupils will be taught the parts of the car that should be periodically checked for safety, the proper methods of driving, hand signals, speed, and all other features of a complete highway safety program. The course will be an extra-curricular activity.

Circleville high is believed to be one of the few in Central Ohio offering its pupils highway safety instruction.

My Trip to Florida

It was a lovely trip. On the second day we went through a cordage and mop yarn mill. We saw our first palm trees in St. Augustine. We went sight-seeing. It is a very interesting old town. We saw the Atlantic ocean for the first time. We drove to Daytona. Then to Daytona Beach where we drove along the beach. The next morning we drove to the grove and picked a lot of oranges. On Sunday we went to the Singing Tower and heard the chimes ring. Then drove back to the grove. We went to Miami and stayed all night, and then we went to a tourist camp. Stayed there the rest of the week and started for home. We also saw Lincoln's cabin and the old Kentucky home.

P.-T. A.

The program committee of the local P.-T.A. has arranged for an especially good meeting for this month. It will be held Thursday evening of this week, the 27th, at 7:30. The theme for the evening is "Hobbies" and several exhibits of such are expected to be on display. Better see these.

This is a meeting for adults rather than for children but the latter are welcome if accompanied by parents.

The Ashville-Muhlenberg game was played at Darbyville high school, January 21. The second string boys played the first game of the evening. This was a very interesting game. It was either team's game until the final whistle. The boys played a five minute overtime period with Ashville winning 26 to 25.

A third special message urged enactment of legislation to adjust assessments on real estate for highway purposes.

WHAT MAKES DIRECTOR?

The movie directors have been telling Bing Crosby and Bob Burns what to do on the screen lots for some time so Thursday, Jan. 27, the gentlemen of the Music Hall have invited a director to their home park for a going-over. Gregory La Cava is the director who takes the risk when he joins Bing and Bob at the microphone for the K.M.H. broadcast over the NBC red network at 10 p. m. Madeleine Carroll, of the screen, and Jan Smeterlin, Polish pianist, are the other visitors of the evening.

La Cava has directed such pictures as "Gabriel Over the White House," "Private Worlds" and "She Married Her Boss." He is one of the less publicized figures in Hollywood who are doing important work so Bing plans to put him on the pan for a Music Hall interview.

Madeleine Carroll is the British actress who was brought to this country after one of her English-made pictures made a hit here. She has repeated several times in Hollywood films.

Jan Smeterlin made his reputation in Europe and, although he is not as well known in this country, he is one of the better pianists now making the circuit of the conert halls.

No Word from Ailing

No word has come from our hospital patients, a half dozen or so, within the last 24 hours and if "no news is good news" they all must be in the "getting along as well as can be expected" class. Peter Arnold, the near 82-year-old Marcy blacksmith, yet remains critically ill at the home of his daughter in Columbus.

Amos Abbott Dead

In the current news columns, Amos Abbott is reported as shooting himself at Plain City. Mr. Abbott many years ago operated a grocery store on West side of North Long street in Ashville. He did teaming also. Many of our older residents will recall this.

My Trip to Florida

It was a lovely trip. On the second day we went through a cordage and mop yarn mill. We saw our first palm trees in St. Augustine. We went sight-seeing. It is a very interesting old town. We saw the Atlantic ocean for the first time. We drove to Daytona. Then to Daytona Beach where we drove along the beach. The next morning we drove to the grove and picked a lot of oranges. On Sunday we went to the Singing Tower and heard the chimes ring. Then drove back to the grove. We went to Miami and stayed all night, and then we went to a tourist camp. Stayed there the rest of the week and started for home. We also saw Lincoln's cabin and the old Kentucky home.

Thrift Week

January 16 to 22 was Thrift Week. Benjamin Franklin taught people to save. He helped a poor family in a cold house by making a stove. We made some Thrift Week posters. We wrote some of his sayings or proverbs.

P.-T. A.

The program committee of the local P.-T.A. has arranged for an especially good meeting for this month. It will be held Thursday evening of this week, the 27th, at 7:30. The theme for the evening is "Hobbies" and several exhibits of such are expected to be on display. Better see these.

This is a meeting for adults rather than for children but the latter are welcome if accompanied by parents.

The Ashville-Muhlenberg game was played at Darbyville high school, January 21. The second string boys played the first game of the evening. This was a very interesting game. It was either team's game until the final whistle. The boys played a five minute overtime period with Ashville winning 26 to 25.

Three Special Messages Go To Assembly; Approval Of New Building Sought

ASSESSMENTS CITED

Appropriation To Pay For Mental Cases Requested

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—(UP)—The general assembly today received three special messages from Governor Davey urging enactment of special legislation.

He urged the senate to approve the administration's bill for a state building commission to direct an institutional building program for the welfare department, and also asked for an appropriation of $500,000 to $1,000,000 for out-patient hospitals for persons with mental diseases who have not been committed to state hospitals.

The house last week passed the building commission bill which carries a $1,000,000 appropriation for new buildings, improvements and repairs at state hospitals and institutions.

A third special message urged enactment of legislation to adjust assessments on real estate for highway purposes.

WHAT MAKES DIRECTOR?

The movie directors have been telling Bing Crosby and Bob Burns what to do on the screen lots for some time so Thursday, Jan. 27, the gentlemen of the Music Hall have invited a director to their home park for a going-over. Gregory La Cava is the director who takes the risk when he joins Bing and Bob at the microphone for the K.M.H. broadcast over the NBC red network at 10 p. m. Madeleine Carroll, of the screen, and Jan Smeterlin, Polish pianist, are the other visitors of the evening.

La Cava has directed such pictures as "Gabriel Over the White House," "Private Worlds" and "She Married Her Boss." He is one of the less publicized figures in Hollywood who are doing important work so Bing plans to put him on the pan for a Music Hall interview.

Madeleine Carroll is the British actress who was brought to this country after one of her English-made pictures made a hit here. She has repeated several times in Hollywood films.

Jan Smeterlin made his reputation in Europe and, although he is not as well known in this country, he is one of the better pianists now making the circuit of the conert halls.

COUNTIANS ASKED TO USE HEALTH SEALS FULL YEAR

Pickaway county residents, Wednesday, were urged to use throughout the year the Christmas seals sold for tuberculosis prevention.

Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, executive secretary of the Pickaway county Public Health league, said:

"Because the seals are sent out at Thanksgiving and known as Christmas seals, some people have the impression that they are only to be sold during the holidays or used on Christmas mail.

"As a matter of fact, they are just as suitable at any season of the year and do just as much good in carrying on the preventative work we are trying in Pickaway county.

"In any case, we cannot afford to fall short of raising the quota set for our county."

The trouble with the country is that too many people are trying to run it.

Two Forgers Paroled By State Board; Others Free

Thomas Irvin, Lovers Lane, and George Kearns, near New Holland, will be paroled from the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield June 1 and April 1, respectively, after serving minimum sentences for forgery.

The men were included in a list of 96 inmates of two state institutions put on parole. Ninety-three of the prisoners are at present confined in the Mansfield prison, while three are inmates of the womens' reformatory at Marysville.

ULTIMATE RHYTHM

"FROM harmony, from heavenly harmony," wrote the poet Dryden, "this universal frame began. From harmony to harmony, through all the measures of its course it ran." But he thought it had ended in Man. He didn't know about these women dancers, and never dreamed of the new "whacky" dance called "chuckaboom," invented by Eleanor Powell.

This, take it from Eleanor, is a dance that has "galumph." She even goes farther. "It's something like nothing else," she explains. It's not like the Big Apple, the Shag, the Suzie-Q, the Lindy-Hop, or anything else. It's the rhythm of flying train wheels, of flying typewriter keys, of a ship's engines. It's the chuckaboom!"

You start it by standing still and beating your heels three times on the floor, and then you're off, jarring the earth and making the heavens dizzy and kicking the daylights out of the "universal frame."

It must be wonderful and cosmic and all that. Yet even in this "dancipation" age there are still a few mossbacks here and there who like to have the rhythm taken out of train wheels by using hard rubber in them and electro-welding the rail-ends, and out of typewriter keys by a similar silencing process, and out of a ship's engines by using steam turbines and electric transmission.

Maybe the rhythm of the future will be noiseless, like that of the atoms, and be enjoyed as shadow-dances are, by the eyes rather than the ears. But it will take time to get used to that.

Anyway, there's quite a rhythmic drift now back to music, away from noise.

CENSORS VS. ART

"IT is interesting to see," remarks a Hungarian movie director now in the United States, "how the course of the film in each country follows the course of free speech." Then he goes on to state that the quality and number of screen productions in Germany have declined sharply with the curtailment of freedom of speech and press.

The statement must be accepted with some reservations. Speech is not precisely free in Russia, yet excellent films have come out of that country in the last few years. This may be because the artistic ability of the Russian is so great as to surmount even the handicap of censorship.

The fact remains that censorship and strict control of thought and expression have a deadening effect on the arts. Those who cannot submit either get out of the country in voluntary exile or are crushed at home. Those who submit, produce dull and uninspired works.

Now Mussolini says he's going to build a lot more warships to match "the naval race of democratic countries." What'll he use for money?

MUSSOLINI SELLING ARMS CHEAP

WASHINGTON—It doesn't pay to minimize the reports of increasing Fascist influence in Latin America. Actually the situation is worse than it appears on the surface.

The State Department is now conducting a confidential survey which shows that Mussolini is arming at least three Latin American countries.

In Nicaragua the Italian Government has just delivered 500 tons of munitions, left over from the Ethiopian war. They were sold on dirt cheap terms, but even so, it is doubtful that Nicaragua will be able to pay for them.

Nicaragua, it will be recalled, has given the United States a 99-year lease for the construction of a canal paralleling the Panama Canal, also leases on certain islands and on the Gulf of Fonseca as naval bases. Recently, however, the Nicaraguan Government has become totalitarian and not particularly friendly to the United States.

In Ecuador, the Italian Government has completed another large sale of arms. Also in Paraguay, where the United States is attempting to negotiate peace in the Chaco, Italy has sold a large consignment of second-hand military planes.

NOTE—Should these countries default on their payments, next step would be for Mussolini to demand oil or mineral concessions. Fascist-Nazi tactics in South America are reported to be to get colonies through economic penetration, without fighting for them.

ANNAPOLIS BOSS

All the admirals love Roosevelt, nevertheless, they are awful sore that the admiral who becomes Superintendent of the Naval Academy next week does so only by benefit of the President.

The man is Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, former White House naval aide, which is how he got his job. Brown is not considered an upper bracket admiral. Those in the upper brackets of efficiency are made fleet commanders, and it has been Navy tradition that superintendents of Annapolis must have had fleet experience.

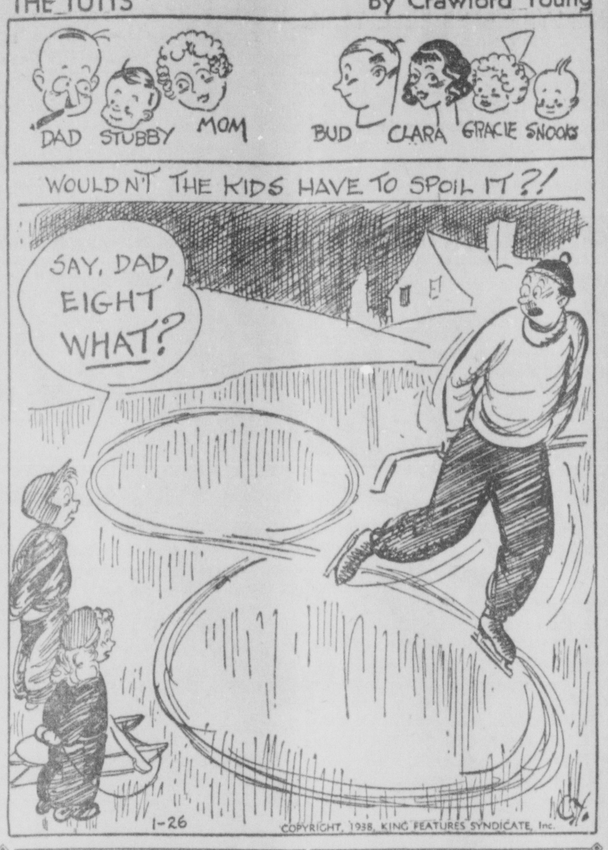

Admiral Brown has never commanded a fleet, and the Navy was preparing to give him a nice, quiet little navy yard such as Charleston, when suddenly an order was received from the White House.

It advised that Admiral Brown should be given the Naval Academy "if he wants it." There was no doubt that he wanted it, since he had done a little personal lobbying to get it.

DIET AND HEALTH

Kidney Stone Cause Traced

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I AM FREQUENTLY asked whether diet has anything to do with the formation of kidney stones, and whether any diet will prevent their formation.

Dr. Clendening

A great many different ideas have been held in the past on this subject. The medical profession, in general, is pretty skeptical of the value of any of them. Certainly they have been pretty unscientific. Thus tomatoes have been supposed to cause kidney stones, but there is no basis for such a belief. Meat is also incriminated.

The nearest approach to a scientific view of the matter has been advanced by a Cleveland physician, eminent in the field of urology. He points out that there is a geographical distribution of kidney stones. They are extremely frequent, for instance, in India and extremely infrequent in Normandy. There are stone areas which were mapped out long ago in Great Britain.

This physician also points out that the frequency of stone in children has greatly decreased over what it was seventy-five years ago. Carefully made comparative statistics of London hospitals show this decrease. He ascribes it to the improvement in the nutrition of children, which has been marked in the last few years, especially in the matter of a diet high in vitamins. Experimentally it has been found that rats that are deprived of Vitamin A have, among other things, a very high incidence of kidney stones.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Three Factors Present

On this basis we may reason that kidney stones are due to three factors: first, an alkaline urine; second, keratinization or hardening of the cells of the pelvis of the kidney, and, third, infection. We know that Vitamin A has something to do with all of these things; that Vitamin A alone will change an alkaline to an acid urine (which is what it ought to be normally), will reduce keratinization and help to prevent infection.

A diet high in Vitamin A, which is also high in acid-ash, is possibly one which will prevent kidney stones. No one, of course, can live on such a diet all his life, but those who are subject to stones and have had one operation may go on this diet as a trial.

Acid-ash foods are as follows: white bread, whole wheat bread, sweet dried corn, crackers, cranberries, eggs, egg white, egg yolk, fish—haddock and pike—lean beef, chicken, frog, lean pork, rabbit, veal, oysters, oatmeal, peanuts, prunes, plums and rice.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

B. Z.: "Some time ago I accidentally struck my finger on the door of the refrigerator; the bruise was ever so slight and it did not draw blood. Recently I noticed a black spot at the base of the nail. Will this spot disappear gradually or shall I see a doctor?"

Answer: The spot will disappear gradually, although it takes several weeks to accomplish this.

A CASE FOR 3 DETECTIVES

By LEO BRUCE

COPYRIGHT BY LEO BRUCE, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Mrs. Mary Thurston, middle-aged wife of a retired English physician, is found murdered in bed during a weekend party at the Thurston home near London. Those in the house when Mrs. Thurston retired are her husband; Townsend, the author; Williams, the family lawyer; Strickland, a sportsman, and the servants. They find her a few seconds after three piercing screams had penetrated the house. No one else is found in the bedroom. The door was bolted from the inside and the only open window revealed a 20-foot drop to the ground. Below the bedroom window, Townsend finds the murder weapon, a bloodstained Chinese knife, taken from the Thurston hallway. Shortly afterwards, Mr. Rider, the vicar, a dinner guest that evening, is found praying beside Mrs. Thurston's body. Lord Simon, brilliant investigator, arrives at the Thurston home next morning. In a storage room water-tank, Lord Simon finds a long rope, taken from the gymnasium. The author finds that M. Picon, another famous criminologist, has arrived on the murder scene.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

"Ah, the good Boeuf! Is it permitted to look about?"

CHAPTER 11

PERSONALLY I could see nothing unusual in the chauffeur's tattooed arm, fact they seemed to be the conventional markings. There were two hearts entwined and pierced by an arrow. There was a Union Jack. And there was an irregular pattern of stars.

"Anything wrong?" asked Fellowes, quite good-humoredly, as he waited patiently for Picon to finish.

"Voyons. Voyons," said M. Picon, and we left Fellowes to continue his work.

As we were walking back to the house, a detail recurred to me which had hitherto escaped my memory.

"Monsieur Picon," I said, "you say that you already know everything that I could tell you. You are mistaken. I have just remembered a detail which I have mentioned to nobody."

"Indeed, mon ami? And what is that so important detail?"

"Well, of course it may have nothing to do with the crime. But I think it ought to be known, now. Yesterday evening, when I had dressed before dinner, someone came out of Mrs. Thurston's room. A man."

"Yes?"

"Do you think it may be important? Because unless it helps your investigation, I do not wish to mention his name."

"Anything may help."

"Very well. I'll tell you. It was David Strickland. When he saw me he tried to get back into the room, but it was too late."

"Indeed? Voila! Strickland, the young man in the room next to Madame Thurston? The young man of the gambling, no?"

I nodded.

"Then we go and make a little visit to the room of Mr. Strickland. Allons."

"You can, m'sieur. You are an investigator. But I shan't go and poke about in someone else's room."

"As you will," said M. Picon.

So I found myself once again standing where I had been in those ugly moments on the previous night, while the small detective went into Strickland's room. I wondered where the occupant was. As we had passed the lounge I had heard voices, and guessed that Williams, Norris and Strickland had gathered there. Dr. Thurston had not appeared today, and we understood from Stall that he intended to stay in his room unless he was urgently wanted. I was glad of that. It seemed to me that the bizarre form of treasure hunt which was going on in the house would bring little enough comfort to a bereaved man.

Stall told us that his master had thought of everyone, and sent down instructions that we were to ask for everything we wanted, and apologies that we should be kept here against our wishes. It was typical of him that he did not forget his manners as host even in the stress of those days.

I soon grew impatient. I did not like standing where the broken panels of that door faced me. I wanted to get downstairs to the others. But it seemed a long time before the diminutive detective reappeared, and when he did so, he did not emerge wholly from the door, but holding it ajar with his foot, called me over to him.

I was startled to see that in his hand was a diamond pendant.

"Vite!" he whispered inevitably. "Look! You know this, is it not?"

"Yes," I said. "It was Mrs. Thurston's."

"Bien. Wait," he whispered, and again disappeared into the room.

When he came out he was calmer.

"What does this mean?" I asked.

"It means that a diamond pendant which belonged to the dead lady is in the suitcase of Mr. David Strickland."

"That proves he is the murderer, then?" I asked quickly.

"Not such hurry, mon ami," he returned, brushing a speck of dust from the lapel of my jacket. "It may prove just the contrary. I say it may. And now for the chauffeur's bedroom."

The places chosen for visits by these remarkable investigators had ceased to produce in me any emotion of surprise. So that once again—though I was tired and hungry—I climbed the upper staircase, and indicated to Picon the door of Fellowes' room.

I had always admired this little man, and it was exciting to watch his jumpy enthusiasm. But I was astonished at the interest he had already shown in Fellowes. I could not believe that the frank-looking chauffeur had anything to conceal beyond a local love affair or two. But I respected Picon and his genius too much to put in any remarks to this effect.

He had left the door of the room open, and I could see him hopping from place to place among the simple and well-ordered furniture. Everything in the room was scrupulously tidy, and the man's clothes had been folded and put away. Picon seemed to find nothing to hold his attention for some time, until, on a small table by the bedside, he saw a copy of the Daily Telegraph. At first he glanced casually at this, but then something on the front page seemed to catch his eye, and he began to look through the paper very carefully.

At last, when he had reached the back pages, he began to cry "Tiens!" and "Voila!" and make other un-English sounds.

"What is it?" I asked.

He came across to me. "You see?" he said excitedly, and indicated some pencil markings in one of the advertisement columns.

I bent down to examine these, and found that they came under the heading of "Licensed Premises, Hotels and Restaurants for Sale." I knew better than to express any surprise, but I could gather nothing from this.

"There!" cried Picon, "the little link. En avant! Piece by piece. Oh, it is not an ordinary matter, this."

"I'm glad you think that," I said, for I had been disappointed at Lord Simon's bored descriptions of it as "another of these locked-room cases."

"No, no. By no means. What is your so English expression? The plot thickens, eh? This paper is three weeks old!"

And he danced back to replace it. As we went downstairs I ventured to ask if he had a theory.

"Not as you might say a theory," he replied. "All is dark. But see, what is that? A little light! Slowly it grows stronger. And soon Papa Picon sees all. All!" he added, and I hoped he was right.

At last we came to Mary Thurston's bedroom, and found Sergeant Beef deep in an armchair by the window.

"Ah, the good Boeuf!" cried Picon, with a Gallic flippancy which I did not altogether like in the presence of the dead. "On guard, eh? Is it permitted to look about?"

"You can 'ave a look round," said the Sergeant. "But nothink's to be touched, sir."

"Bien. And what for do you wait so patiently, Sergeant?"

"Me? Oh, I'm just waiting for the warrant to come through. I've made my report."

Picon could not help smiling. "Waiting for the warrant, eh? That is good. You know, then, who is guilty?"

"'Course I know. It's as plain as the nose on your face."

Up to a morning of real winter, that following day of Springlike temperature and, therefore, all the more noticeable and uncomfortable. But what else can one expect in late January? Read further in the prints about the great traffic war up Columbus way. Believe it or not, but not a single newspaper in Central Ohio has written feature stories warning motorists against traffic traps. For there is no traffic trap in the state capital. Just sensible enforcement of laws for the protection of life and property. But when a small town undertakes the same thing the officials of that ville generally are held up to severe criticism in the so-called metropolitan press. If all communities enforced all traffic regulations this would be a much safer world.

In the evening did venture out through the blustery weather to attend the Retail Merchants Association dinner meeting and hear plans for a big sale event slated for one day, February 17. Lawrence Goeller was the speaker of the evening and a fine job he did. Among other things he said this would be a much better world if all of us gave up our efforts to outguess competitors and would devote our time to being better businessmen than ourselves. Very smart, that thought. Most of us do worry too much about the other fellow and not enough about ourselves. The same idea existed in a card I saw many years ago. It was prominently displayed on a hotel bar a few days before prohibition went into effect and represented the thought of the bartender. It read: "Don't worry about me; what will you do?" No man profits alone by success and, likewise, no one is injured alone by failure. So, worrying about the other fellow's success is a complete waste of time, for you profit by it even though you have done nothing to aid. Some smart men declare that the proper procedure is to try a little copying and to turn the time devoted to worrying into constructive thought.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Three Factors Present

On this basis we may reason that kidney stones are due to three factors: first, an alkaline urine; second, keratinization or hardening of the cells of the pelvis of the kidney, and, third, infection. We know that Vitamin A has something to do with all of these things; that Vitamin A alone will change an alkaline to an acid urine (which is what it ought to be normally), will reduce keratinization and help to prevent infection.

A diet high in Vitamin A, which is also high in acid-ash, is possibly one which will prevent kidney stones. No one, of course, can live on such a diet all his life, but those who are subject to stones and have had one operation may go on this diet as a trial.

Acid-ash foods are as follows: white bread, whole wheat bread, sweet dried corn, crackers, cranberries, eggs, egg white, egg yolk, fish—haddock and pike—lean beef, chicken, frog, lean pork, rabbit, veal, oysters, oatmeal, peanuts, prunes, plums and rice.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

B. Z.: "Some time ago I accidentally struck my finger on the door of the refrigerator; the bruise was ever so slight and it did not draw blood. Recently I noticed a black spot at the base of the nail. Will this spot disappear gradually or shall I see a doctor?"

Answer: The spot will disappear gradually, although it takes several weeks to accomplish this.

A CASE FOR 3 DETECTIVES

By LEO BRUCE

COPYRIGHT BY LEO BRUCE, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Mrs. Mary Thurston, middle-aged wife of a retired English physician, is found murdered in bed during a weekend party at the Thurston home near London. Those in the house when Mrs. Thurston retired are her husband; Townsend, the author; Williams, the family lawyer; Strickland, a sportsman, and the servants. They find her a few seconds after three piercing screams had penetrated the house. No one else is found in the bedroom. The door was bolted from the inside and the only open window revealed a 20-foot drop to the ground. Below the bedroom window, Townsend finds the murder weapon, a bloodstained Chinese knife, taken from the Thurston hallway. Shortly afterwards, Mr. Rider, the vicar, a dinner guest that evening, is found praying beside Mrs. Thurston's body. Lord Simon, brilliant investigator, arrives at the Thurston home next morning. In a storage room water-tank, Lord Simon finds a long rope, taken from the gymnasium. The author finds that M. Picon, another famous criminologist, has arrived on the murder scene.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

"Ah, the good Boeuf! Is it permitted to look about?"

CHAPTER 11

PERSONALLY I could see nothing unusual in the chauffeur's tattooed arm, fact they seemed to be the conventional markings. There were two hearts entwined and pierced by an arrow. There was a Union Jack. And there was an irregular pattern of stars.

"Anything wrong?" asked Fellowes, quite good-humoredly, as he waited patiently for Picon to finish.

"Voyons. Voyons," said M. Picon, and we left Fellowes to continue his work.

As we were walking back to the house, a detail recurred to me which had hitherto escaped my memory.

"Monsieur Picon," I said, "you say that you already know everything that I could tell you. You are mistaken. I have just remembered a detail which I have mentioned to nobody."

"Indeed, mon ami? And what is that so important detail?"

"Well, of course it may have nothing to do with the crime. But I think it ought to be known, now. Yesterday evening, when I had dressed before dinner, someone came out of Mrs. Thurston's room. A man."

"Yes?"

"Do you think it may be important? Because unless it helps your investigation, I do not wish to mention his name."

"Anything may help."

"Very well. I'll tell you. It was David Strickland. When he saw me he tried to get back into the room, but it was too late."

"Indeed? Voila! Strickland, the young man in the room next to Madame Thurston? The young man of the gambling, no?"

I nodded.

"Then we go and make a little visit to the room of Mr. Strickland. Allons."

"You can, m'sieur. You are an investigator. But I shan't go and poke about in someone else's room."

"As you will," said M. Picon.

So I found myself once again standing where I had been in those ugly moments on the previous night, while the small detective went into Strickland's room. I wondered where the occupant was. As we had passed the lounge I had heard voices, and guessed that Williams, Norris and Strickland had gathered there. Dr. Thurston had not appeared today, and we understood from Stall that he intended to stay in his room unless he was urgently wanted. I was glad of that. It seemed to me that the bizarre form of treasure hunt which was going on in the house would bring little enough comfort to a bereaved man.

Stall told us that his master had thought of everyone, and sent down instructions that we were to ask for everything we wanted, and apologies that we should be kept here against our wishes. It was typical of him that he did not forget his manners as host even in the stress of those days.

I soon grew impatient. I did not like standing where the broken panels of that door faced me. I wanted to get downstairs to the others. But it seemed a long time before the diminutive detective reappeared, and when he did so, he did not emerge wholly from the door, but holding it ajar with his foot, called me over to him.

I was startled to see that in his hand was a diamond pendant.

"Vite!" he whispered inevitably. "Look! You know this, is it not?"

"Yes," I said. "It was Mrs. Thurston's."

"Bien. Wait," he whispered, and again disappeared into the room.

When he came out he was calmer.

"What does this mean?" I asked.

"It means that a diamond pendant which belonged to the dead lady is in the suitcase of Mr. David Strickland."

"That proves he is the murderer, then?" I asked quickly.

"Not such hurry, mon ami," he returned, brushing a speck of dust from the lapel of my jacket. "It may prove just the contrary. I say it may. And now for the chauffeur's bedroom."

The places chosen for visits by these remarkable investigators had ceased to produce in me any emotion of surprise. So that once again—though I was tired and hungry—I climbed the upper staircase, and indicated to Picon the door of Fellowes' room.

I had always admired this little man, and it was exciting to watch his jumpy enthusiasm. But I was astonished at the interest he had already shown in Fellowes. I could not believe that the frank-looking chauffeur had anything to conceal beyond a local love affair or two. But I respected Picon and his genius too much to put in any remarks to this effect.

He had left the door of the room open, and I could see him hopping from place to place among the simple and well-ordered furniture. Everything in the room was scrupulously tidy, and the man's clothes had been folded and put away. Picon seemed to find nothing to hold his attention for some time, until, on a small table by the bedside, he saw a copy of the Daily Telegraph. At first he glanced casually at this, but then something on the front page seemed to catch his eye, and he began to look through the paper very carefully.

At last, when he had reached the back pages, he began to cry "Tiens!" and "Voila!" and make other un-English sounds.

"What is it?" I asked.

He came across to me. "You see?" he said excitedly, and indicated some pencil markings in one of the advertisement columns.

I bent down to examine these, and found that they came under the heading of "Licensed Premises, Hotels and Restaurants for Sale." I knew better than to express any surprise, but I could gather nothing from this.

"There!" cried Picon, "the little link. En avant! Piece by piece. Oh, it is not an ordinary matter, this."

"I'm glad you think that," I said, for I had been disappointed at Lord Simon's bored descriptions of it as "another of these locked-room cases."

"No, no. By no means. What is your so English expression? The plot thickens, eh? This paper is three weeks old!"

And he danced back to replace it. As we went downstairs I ventured to ask if he had a theory.

"Not as you might say a theory," he replied. "All is dark. But see, what is that? A little light! Slowly it grows stronger. And soon Papa Picon sees all. All!" he added, and I hoped he was right.

At last we came to Mary Thurston's bedroom, and found Sergeant Beef deep in an armchair by the window.

"Ah, the good Boeuf!" cried Picon, with a Gallic flippancy which I did not altogether like in the presence of the dead. "On guard, eh? Is it permitted to look about?"

"You can 'ave a look round," said the Sergeant. "But nothink's to be touched, sir."

"Bien. And what for do you wait so patiently, Sergeant?"

"Me? Oh, I'm just waiting for the warrant to come through. I've made my report."

Picon could not help smiling. "Waiting for the warrant, eh? That is good. You know, then, who is guilty?"

"'Course I know. It's as plain as the nose on your face."

Read further in the prints about the great traffic war up Columbus way. Believe it or not, but not a single newspaper in Central Ohio has written feature stories warning motorists against traffic traps. For there is no traffic trap in the state capital. Just sensible enforcement of laws for the protection of life and property. But when a small town undertakes the same thing the officials of that ville generally are held up to severe criticism in the so-called metropolitan press. If all communities enforced all traffic regulations this would be a much safer world.

In the evening did venture out through the blustery weather to attend the Retail Merchants Association dinner meeting and hear plans for a big sale event slated for one day, February 17. Lawrence Goeller was the speaker of the evening and a fine job he did. Among other things he said this would be a much better world if all of us gave up our efforts to outguess competitors and would devote our time to being better businessmen than ourselves. Very smart, that thought. Most of us do worry too much about the other fellow and not enough about ourselves. The same idea existed in a card I saw many years ago. It was prominently displayed on a hotel bar a few days before prohibition went into effect and represented the thought of the bartender. It read: "Don't worry about me; what will you do?" No man profits alone by success and, likewise, no one is injured alone by failure. So, worrying about the other fellow's success is a complete waste of time, for you profit by it even though you have done nothing to aid. Some smart men declare that the proper procedure is to try a little copying and to turn the time devoted to worrying into constructive thought.

MISS WENTWORTH ONE OF JUDGING WINNERS

Miss Iola Wentworth, of Girard, daughter of Mrs. Grace Wentworth, of W. Union street, won third prize in an "art judging competition" last week in Youngstown.

William A. Milliron, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce art week committee, announced winners in the competition sponsored by his organization.

The winners included Mrs. Emil Ortsey, of Youngstown; Miss Wentworth, and Mary Lou Snell and E. Markusic, of Youngstown.

The entrants were to guess which painting would win the $200 first prize in the New Year show at Butler Art Institute and give reasons for their selections. Mr. Milliron said the first four winners correctly designated "The Rush Hour," by Clyde Singer as the prize winner.

Awards in the junior chamber competition, valuable paintings, will be delivered to the winners this week. The junior chamber aroused much interest in the show that all attendance records at the gallery were shattered.

Ed's Master Loaf

has been Stamped
by Hundreds of Housewives of Pickaway County!

We wish to publicly express our thanks for the way in which Ed's Master Loaf has been received by the housewives of Circleville and surrounding community.

Ed's Master Loaf was introduced on the market the first of January and the public acceptance has far exceeded our fondest expectations. In the beginning it was our belief that Ed's Master Loaf was a little out of the ordinary and a far better than the average loaf of bread—in short, a bread you would really like!

Our belief was more than right! Dozens of men and women alike have told their grocer, remarked to our drivers and stopped in our bakery and told us of their approval of Ed's Master Loaf ..... they have stamped it "O. K."

If, as yet, YOU haven't tried this new bread decide now to give it a trial. Ask for it at your favorite independent grocers or available from any one of our ten trucks.

Ed Wallace Bakery

WHILE THE NEW YEAR IS STILL NEW, USE ED'S MASTER LOAF OR HONEY BOY BREAD. IF YOUR GROCER CAN'T SUPPLY YOU, CALL 488.

DANGEROUS
It is dangerous to sell a SUBSTITUTE for 666 just to make three or four cents more. Customers are your best assets; lose them and you lose your business. 666 is worth three or four times as much as a SUBSTITUTE.

Awards in the junior chamber competition, valuable paintings, will be delivered to the winners this week. The junior chamber aroused much interest in the show that all attendance records at the gallery were shattered.

Ed's Master Loaf

has been Stamped

by Hundreds of Housewives of Pickaway County!

We wish to publicly express our thanks for the way in which Ed's Master Loaf has been received by the housewives of Circleville and surrounding community.

Ed's Master Loaf was introduced on the market the first of January and the public acceptance has far exceeded our fondest expectations. In the beginning it was our belief that Ed's Master Loaf was a little out of the ordinary and a far better than the average loaf of bread—in short, a bread you would really like!

Our belief was more than right! Dozens of men and women alike have told their grocer, remarked to our drivers and stopped in our bakery and told us of their approval of Ed's Master Loaf . . . . . they have stamped it "O. K."

If, as yet, YOU haven't tried this new bread decide now to give it a trial. Ask for it at your favorite independent grocers or available from any one of our ten trucks.

STATE COUNCIL FACES DISPUTE OVER FISH BAN

Sportsmen Hold 10-1 Edge As Opposing Closed Spring Fishing

HEARING TO CONTINUE

Carp, Pollution Blamed For Greater Damage

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—(UP)—With Ohio sportsmen sharply divided on the question, the state Conservation Council today was considering establishment of a Spring closed season on all fishing.

Opponents of the closed season had about a 10-to-1 majority in an informal vote taken here yesterday at a hearing on this and other questions of fish regulation, called by the Conservation Council and attended by 200 representatives of sportsmen's organizations.

Minority spokesmen, however, were emphatic in their insistence that prohibition of all fishing during the bass spawning season is necessary.

A test vote on closing streams but not lakes to Spring fishing won over only a few of the opponents.

A possible basis of compromise, however, was seen in an almost unanimous vote in favor of leaving the conservation commission free, after sounding out local sentiment in each case, to close specified streams and parts of streams.

The period involved is from May 1 to June 15, now a closed season for black bass.

Other Factors Blamed

Opponents of a general Spring ban argued that carp, stream pollution and other hazards do more damage than Spring anglers to the replenishment of the game fish supply.

F. A. Hanawalt, Otterbein college biologist and angler, was among those who urged the Spring closing. He also recommended that the minimum legal size limit on black bass be raised from 11 to 12 inches.

Also before the council was the proposal of several other spokesmen that the black bass limit be reduced to 10 inches, but that the bag limit on this fish be cut from eight to five.

Other questions growing out of the hearing included:

Prohibition of commercial seining of minnows; reduction from 100 to 50 in the number of minnows an individual angler may have for his own use; prohibition of trolling from motor boats; prohibition of trot lines, either entirely or for distances of 1000 feet below dams.

DEMAREE AND JURGES NOT RATED AS CUB HOLDOUTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 — (UP) — Frank Demaree and Bill Jurges aren't holdouts — they're just negotiating.

The Chicago Cubs refused today to consider the two dissatisfied veterans as holdouts although both returned their 1938 contracts unsigned.

Demaree, however, was a serious holdout last season and failed to appear until after the rest of the club had gone into training at Catalina island.

The Lefties won the first and third games, dropping the second by 12 pins. In the second game, Lemon, No. 2 man for the Lefties, recorded seven splits in the 10 frames.

Three Teams May End Year's Play In Tie Following Tuesday's Outcome

EARL WILSON HITS 14

Anderson, Pirate Star, Puts 13 Through Hoop

The Pickaway county basketball league was thrown into a three-way deadlock Tuesday evening when the Scioto township lads turned back the previously undefeated Pickaway township team in a thrilling 29-28 game. The fray was played on the Commercial Point court, home of the Scioto team, before an almost-capacity crowd.

Pickaway, Scioto and Ashville have all lost one game. The first two teams have played one more contest than Ashville, but at the season's end each will have engaged in 12. It is possible that the league race will end with all three tied since neither faces the other again. Ashville defeated Scioto by a 24-21 count on Nov. 24 and Pickaway turned back Ashville 35-32 on Jan. 14.

Pickaway meets Jackson township, Perry township and Darby township in its remaining games; Scioto takes on Williamsport, Walnut township and New Holland, and Ashville has yet to play Saltcreek, Monroe, Jackson and Washington. The Ashville course appears a little smoother than that of its foes.

The Scioto-Pickaway game was a honey from start to finish. Pickaway grabbed an 8-4 lead at the first period, but was held to three points while Scioto counted 11 in the second period. The half ended 15-11 with Scioto on the long end.

Scioto strengthened its margin in the third canto by tallying 10 to six. Pickaway put on a great show in the final period, scoring 11 points against four, but the third period advantage was too much in favor of the Commercial Point lads.

The game was cleanly fought and hotly contested with personal fouls being at a minimum. Eleven were called on Scioto and six on Pickaway. The winners converted only one free throw, while eight of Pickaway's points came over the charity method.

Earl Wilson, Scioto center, was the evening's high scorer with seven shots from the field. Creighton Anderson, Pickaway ace, hit for 13 points.

The Pickaway girls remained in the race for a position in the tournament by winning 13-10 from the Sciotoans. Scioto reserves gained the upper hand in an 18-12 preliminary.

Longenecker refereed the games. He was assisted by Hensel.

STATE COUNCIL FACES DISPUTE OVER FISH BAN

Sportsmen Hold 10-1 Edge As Opposing Closed Spring Fishing

HEARING TO CONTINUE

Carp, Pollution Blamed For Greater Damage

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—(UP)—With Ohio sportsmen sharply divided on the question, the state Conservation Council today was considering establishment of a Spring closed season on all fishing.

Opponents of the closed season had about a 10-to-1 majority in an informal vote taken here yesterday at a hearing on this and other questions of fish regulation, called by the Conservation Council and attended by 200 representatives of sportsmen's organizations.

Minority spokesmen, however, were emphatic in their insistence that prohibition of all fishing during the bass spawning season is necessary.

A test vote on closing streams but not lakes to Spring fishing won over only a few of the opponents.

A possible basis of compromise, however, was seen in an almost unanimous vote in favor of leaving the conservation commission free, after sounding out local sentiment in each case, to close specified streams and parts of streams.

The period involved is from May 1 to June 15, now a closed season for black bass.

Other Factors Blamed

Opponents of a general Spring ban argued that carp, stream pollution and other hazards do more damage than Spring anglers to the replenishment of the game fish supply.

F. A. Hanawalt, Otterbein college biologist and angler, was among those who urged the Spring closing. He also recommended that the minimum legal size limit on black bass be raised from 11 to 12 inches.

Also before the council was the proposal of several other spokesmen that the black bass limit be reduced to 10 inches, but that the bag limit on this fish be cut from eight to five.

Other questions growing out of the hearing included:

Prohibition of commercial seining of minnows; reduction from 100 to 50 in the number of minnows an individual angler may have for his own use; prohibition of trolling from motor boats; prohibition of trot lines, either entirely or for distances of 1000 feet below dams.

DEMAREE AND JURGES NOT RATED AS CUB HOLDOUTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 — (UP) — Frank Demaree and Bill Jurges aren't holdouts — they're just negotiating.

The Chicago Cubs refused today to consider the two dissatisfied veterans as holdouts although both returned their 1938 contracts unsigned.

Demaree, however, was a serious holdout last season and failed to appear until after the rest of the club had gone into training at Catalina island.

STATE WITHOUT BIG CAGE GAME FOR FIRST TIME

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — (UP) — For the first time since early December when the season opened, Ohio is without a college basketball game tonight. Mid-year examinations at colleges throughout the state brought a halt to court activity.

Ohio Northern, which has dropped six Ohio conference games in seven starts, stepped outside the league to gain a 48 to 39 triumph over Bluffton. Northern was in front throughout the contest. Mallone topped the winners with 12 points.

Three Teams May End Year's Play In Tie Following Tuesday's Outcome

EARL WILSON HITS 14

Anderson, Pirate Star, Puts 13 Through Hoop

The Pickaway county basketball league was thrown into a three-way deadlock Tuesday evening when the Scioto township lads turned back the previously undefeated Pickaway township team in a thrilling 29-28 game. The fray was played on the Commercial Point court, home of the Scioto team, before an almost-capacity crowd.

Pickaway, Scioto and Ashville have all lost one game. The first two teams have played one more contest than Ashville, but at the season's end each will have engaged in 12. It is possible that the league race will end with all three tied since neither faces the other again. Ashville defeated Scioto by a 24-21 count on Nov. 24 and Pickaway turned back Ashville 35-32 on Jan. 14.

Pickaway meets Jackson township, Perry township and Darby township in its remaining games; Scioto takes on Williamsport, Walnut township and New Holland, and Ashville has yet to play Saltcreek, Monroe, Jackson and Washington. The Ashville course appears a little smoother than that of its foes.

The Scioto-Pickaway game was a honey from start to finish. Pickaway grabbed an 8-4 lead at the first period, but was held to three points while Scioto counted 11 in the second period. The half ended 15-11 with Scioto on the long end.

Scioto strengthened its margin in the third canto by tallying 10 to six. Pickaway put on a great show in the final period, scoring 11 points against four, but the third period advantage was too much in favor of the Commercial Point lads.

The game was cleanly fought and hotly contested with personal fouls being at a minimum. Eleven were called on Scioto and six on Pickaway. The winners converted only one free throw, while eight of Pickaway's points came over the charity method.

Earl Wilson, Scioto center, was the evening's high scorer with seven shots from the field. Creighton Anderson, Pickaway ace, hit for 13 points.

The Pickaway girls remained in the race for a position in the tournament by winning 13-10 from the Sciotoans. Scioto reserves gained the upper hand in an 18-12 preliminary.

Longenecker refereed the games. He was assisted by Hensel.

PREVENTING TWO LOSERS

IF YOU HOLD the A, Q and J of your trump suit, with one of those secondary honors opposite the other one and the A, but do not possess the 10 or the 9, your best chance, usually, to avoid losing two tricks in the suit, consists of leading a small card toward the single honor. In fact, it is impossible to keep from losing one trick in the suit, and it is easy to lose two of them if you lead the single one toward the others.

	♠ Q 4 ♥ A K 5 4 2 ♦ J 9 4 3 ♣ J 8
♠ K 7 ♥ J 10 6 ♦ 10 8 2 ♣ A K 10 4 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ 10 9 8 6 ♥ Q 9 7 3 ♦ 6 5 ♣ 9 7 6
	♠ A J 5 3 2 ♥ 8 ♦ A K Q 7 ♣ Q 5 3

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

After a pass by East, South's opening bid on this deal was 1-Spade, West overcalled with 2-Clubs, North bid 2-Hearts, South 3-Diamonds, North 4-Diamonds and South 4-Spades.

West cashed the clubs A and K and then switched to the heart J, which was won in the dummy with the K. The spade Q was then led and won by West with the K. West returned the heart 10, which was won with the A and the spade J finessed. This held, but the declarer was disappointed to find, upon cashing the spade A, that East still held a winning trump, so that 4-Spades could not be made.

With so many high cards missing in the trump suit and able to afford only the loss of one trick in the suit, the declarer's best play was to have led a diamond to the South hand and then a low trump toward dummy's Q. With the K in the West hand, this play would have limited the opponents to capturing only one trick in that suit. Even if East had held the K, the play would have succeeded, provided he did not hold all the top missing cards.

CIRCLEVILLE MERCHANTS SCHEDULE MAJOR SALES EVENT FEBRUARY 17

PLANS OUTLINED AT TUESDAY EVE DINNER SESSION

Lawrence Goeller Addresses Retailers; Cooperation Of Businessmen Urged

"KITE RIDING" SCORED

Numerous New Products Seen By Speaker

Plans for an elaborate sale on Feb. 17, boosting Circleville as a shopping center, were outlined at a dinner meeting of the Retail Merchants Assn. Tuesday evening.

Outstanding bargains in every line of merchandise will be featured in Circleville stores in the one-day event. The sale promises to be one of the largest ever staged by the organization. Each store will make a special feature of three items, with prices reduced to a point where shoppers will find it difficult not to buy. Stores may feature as many sale items as desired. Many stores plan special stocks of sale items in addition to their regular lines of merchandise.

Lawrence Goeller, Circleville manufacturer, urged cooperation among merchants, a readiness to accept new merchandise and merchandising ideas in his address on the subject "Kite Tail Riding" He explained kite-tail riding as "hanging on, trying to cash in on efforts of others, taking credit and none of the grief."

He suggested that merchants obtain the opinions of other merchants in solving their problems. "Outside viewpoints are what you need in many of your problems," he said. "You may be too close to the problem to be solved. Progress is made by dissatisfied persons. Those who are satisfied with things as they are make no progress."

"Your jobs and mine are to be better merchants, manufacturers and citizens."

The speaker urged merchants to be ready to accept new products and predicted that there would be plenty of them in the next few years. "We can expect great things of the future, in merchandising and manufacturing processes," he said.

Samples of new types of flexible glass and glass cloth were exhibited by Mr. Goeller. He recalled that his first address before an organization of merchants was made 22 years ago.

George Griffith, president of the organization, explained cards to be issued with memberships. These cards, to be posted in the stores, are a protection to merchants against various soliciting ideas.

Two vocal selections were sung by Joe Burns, accompanied by Mrs. Karl Herrmann. Forty persons attended the meeting.

Plans for the sale were explained by Irvin Kinsey and T. E. Wilson.

The meeting was held at Hanley's.

JURORS INDICT MATHEWSON ON FRAUD CHARGES

charge was on a check for $12.60, dated last Aug. 29 and signed with the name of C. E. Croman.

Cases in which no indictments were returned were: Charles Painter, South Solon, reckless driving; Clell Arledge, Water street, assault and battery, and Isaac Jackson Brown, Route 23, north of Circleville, driving when intoxicated.

The jury reported regulations for the operation of the county jail were being carried out by the sheriff.

One secret indictment was revealed at noon Wednesday after the sheriff's department had apprehended Clyde Seymour, 24, of Pontius Lane, one of three men charged with burglary and larceny involving the theft of some meat.

Those indicted with Seymour on the charge are Melvin, 24, and Chalmers Johnson, 21, of Paintsville, Ky., who have been residing near Pherson.

The men are accused of the theft of two shoulders last Friday from the smokehouse of John and Luther Ours, near Five Points. Officers said the Johnsons had been husking corn in Monroe township.

The meat was found in a fodder shock by Ray Hanawalt, farmer residing between Pherson and Five Points. Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Earl Weaver traced tracks and arrested the Johnsons. The three men had been seen together Friday night.

FAUSNAUGH DIVORCE

Suit for divorce, custody of three children and alimony was filed in Common Pleas court Wednesday by Dorothy S. Fausnaugh against Russell Fausnaugh, E. Mound street, Circleville. The action charges neglect of duty. They were married March 12, 1922 in Newport, Ky.

Just as Americans develop the finest road-building machinery on earth, the government goes economical.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—

BY BOB BURNS

I believe one reason why they have so many divorces out here in Hollywood is because one of their past lives keeps comin' up in front of the other one. I heard two girls talkin' the other day on the movin' picture set and one of 'em told the other one that she was gonna get married to a fella and she says "Before I marry him, I'm gonna tell him the whole story of my past life." The other girl says "Well, when you do, you'd better sit on his lap and stroke his hair while you tell him." The prospective bride says "Well, why should I stroke his hair when I tell him about my past life?" and the other girl says "It'll keep his hair from standin' on end."

PENSION BOARD RECEIVES FUND

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—(UP)—After heated debate in which it was charged that the aid for the aged division was used for "political purposes," the house of representatives today had passed and sent to the senate the Whetro-Harter bill appropriating $17,000,000 as the state's share of old age pensions for 1938.

Rep. Patrick F. Monahan, D., Cuyahoga, and Rep. L. C. Washburn, D., Summit, charged that Henry J. Berrodin, chief of the division, has been unable to administer the law properly because of interference from "higher up."

"There is something radically wrong with the pension division," Monahan said. "Mr. Berrodin is chief of the division in name only. If he had his way, this law would be properly administered. It's time this condition were corrected."

"What Gov. Davey orders is what is done in the pension division, not what Mr. Berrodin wants to do," Washburn said. "The governor bid for votes by increasing the penison payments in 1936, shortly before the election. Afterwards they had to be cut because there wasn't sufficient money."

Rep. William M. McCulloch, Republican floor leader, said the governor ordered pensions increased $10 a month before the 1936 election "for a purpose clear to the most ignorant."

McCulloch charged that in letters to pensioners, the governor "even led them to believe that he himself had furnished the money for this increase."

FOREST CEMETERY BOARD NAMES RITT TO VACANCY

Annual meeting of stockholders of the Forest Cemetery Assn., was held Tuesday night in the jury room of Common Pleas court. John S. Ritt was elected a trustee to succeed the late W. E. Crist. Guy Culp and C. A. Leist, whose terms expired, were re-named to the board. The three trustees serve three-year terms.

Other trustees of the association are E. S. Neuding, H. M. Crites, George Grand-Girard and Robert L. Brehmer. Organization meeting of the board of trustees will be held Friday.

He urged welfare department officials to "pay as little attention to technicalities as possible." He said additional funds would be made available immediately for relief.

At Houghton, Mich., a truck driver was asphyxiated in the cab of his machine while clearing a path for a doctor.

Highway crews rescued more than 100 motorists stranded in zero temperatures and hundreds of others were believed still awaiting rescue or to have taken refuge in nearby farmhouses.

Hanistee, Mich., went for hours without electric service to hospital, homes, and factories after breakdown of the power supply.

At Marquette, Mich., three buildings were destroyed in a fire which swept a downtown block during the peak of the blizzard.

At Holland, Mich., three coast guardsmen sought a fisherman reported swept with his flimsy cottage into Lake Macatawa. A woman said she saw the building blown into the water.

At Bessemer, Mich., a county superintendent said his assistants were seeking a young woman missing nearly 24 hours from her home in Murley, Wis., just across the state line. He reported that there was no danger of starvation or exposure to the marooned children near Ironwood. Farmers were going through 20-foot drifts to carry them provisions, he said.

Boys were skiing over the tops of automobiles in drifts at Marquette.

In Wisconsin, 80 C. C. C. employes worked all day with two plows and a tractor to clear a path from Blackwell to Laona to bring an expectant mother to a hospital. Physicians said the six-mile trip saved the lives of mother and child.

More snow was predicted for Madison, Wis. Huge drifts closed the city to the north and roads to the south were hardly passable.

A seven-year-old girl died in a blizzard near Clark, S. D., when she left her home to summon aid for her parents fighting a blaze in the home. Two died in automobile and train accidents in Indiana and a six-year-old boy was drowned in the Illinois flood. A crew member of a tug was believed drowned when the boat smashed against a railroad bridge and foundered near La Salle, Ill. Police dragged the swollen waters of Indian Creek, near Kewanee, Ill., for the body of Ralph Hartness, 20, whose truck was found submerged.

Two hundred families in the Camden, Ark., area, forced to flee the Ouachita river flood, still were unable to return to their homes and relief organizations were hard pressed to supply necessities.

The Arkansas floods were not expected to cause extensive damage although the St. Francis river was still rising and a flood crest of 41 feet was forecast by Friday.

Fruit growers feared freezing temperatures would damage apple, peach and berry crops in Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee. High winds were expected to nullify a frost threat in the Florida citrus belt.

CIRCLEVILLE MERCHANTS SCHEDULE MAJOR SALES EVENT FEBRUARY 17

PLANS OUTLINED AT TUESDAY EVE DINNER SESSION

Lawrence Goeller Addresses Retailers; Cooperation Of Businessmen Urged

"KITE RIDING" SCORED

Numerous New Products Seen By Speaker

Plans for an elaborate sale on Feb. 17, boosting Circleville as a shopping center, were outlined at a dinner meeting of the Retail Merchants Assn. Tuesday evening.

Outstanding bargains in every line of merchandise will be featured in Circleville stores in the one-day event. The sale promises to be one of the largest ever staged by the organization. Each store will make a special feature of three items, with prices reduced to a point where shoppers will find it difficult not to buy. Stores may feature as many sale items as desired. Many stores plan special stocks of sale items in addition to their regular lines of merchandise.

Lawrence Goeller, Circleville manufacturer, urged cooperation among merchants, a readiness to accept new merchandise and merchandising ideas in his address on the subject "Kite Tail Riding" He explained kite-tail riding as "hanging on, trying to cash in on efforts of others, taking credit and none of the grief."

He suggested that merchants obtain the opinions of other merchants in solving their problems. "Outside viewpoints are what you need in many of your problems," he said. "You may be too close to the problem to be solved. Progress is made by dissatisfied persons. Those who are satisfied with things as they are make no progress."

"Your jobs and mine are to be better merchants, manufacturers and citizens."

The speaker urged merchants to be ready to accept new products and predicted that there would be plenty of them in the next few years. "We can expect great things of the future, in merchandising and manufacturing processes," he said.

Samples of new types of flexible glass and glass cloth were exhibited by Mr. Goeller. He recalled that his first address before an organization of merchants was made 22 years ago.

George Griffith, president of the organization, explained cards to be issued with memberships. These cards, to be posted in the stores, are a protection to merchants against various soliciting ideas.

Two vocal selections were sung by Joe Burns, accompanied by Mrs. Karl Herrmann. Forty persons attended the meeting.

Plans for the sale were explained by Irvin Kinsey and T. E. Wilson.

The meeting was held at Hanley's.

JURORS INDICT MATHEWSON ON FRAUD CHARGES

Roy Walisa Is Cited For Receiving, Concealing Stolen Property

charge was on a check for $12.60, dated last Aug. 29 and signed with the name of C. E. Croman.

Cases in which no indictments were returned were: Charles Painter, South Solon, reckless driving; Clell Arledge, Water street, assault and battery, and Isaac Jackson Brown, Route 23, north of Circleville, driving when intoxicated.

The jury reported regulations for the operation of the county jail were being carried out by the sheriff.

One secret indictment was revealed at noon Wednesday after the sheriff's department had apprehended Clyde Seymour, 24, of Pontius Lane, one of three men charged with burglary and larceny involving the theft of some meat.

Those indicted with Seymour on the charge are Melvin, 24, and Chalmers Johnson, 21, of Paintsville, Ky., who have been residing near Pherson.

The men are accused of the theft of two shoulders last Friday from the smokehouse of John and Luther Ours, near Five Points. Officers said the Johnsons had been husking corn in Monroe township.

The meat was found in a fodder shock by Ray Hanawalt, farmer residing between Pherson and Five Points. Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Earl Weaver traced tracks and arrested the Johnsons. The three men had been seen together Friday night.

FAUSNAUGH DIVORCE

Suit for divorce, custody of three children and alimony was filed in Common Pleas court Wednesday by Dorothy S. Fausnaugh against Russell Fausnaugh, E. Mound street, Circleville. The action charges neglect of duty. They were married March 12, 1922 in Newport, Ky.

Just as Americans develop the finest road-building machinery on earth, the government goes economical.

I believe one reason why they have so many divorces out here in Hollywood is because one of their past lives keeps comin' up in front of the other one. I heard two girls talkin' the other day on the movin' picture set and one of 'em told the other one that she was gonna get married to a fella and she says "Before I marry him, I'm gonna tell him the whole story of my past life." The other girl says "Well, when you do, you'd better sit on his lap and stroke his hair while you tell him." The prospective bride says "Well, why should I stroke his hair when I tell him about my past life?" and the other girl says "It'll keep his hair from standin' on end."

PENSION BOARD RECEIVES FUND

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—(UP)—After heated debate in which it was charged that the aid for the aged division was used for "political purposes," the house of representatives today had passed and sent to the senate the Whetro-Harter bill appropriating $17,000,000 as the state's share of old age pensions for 1938.

Rep. Patrick F. Monahan, D., Cuyahoga, and Rep. L. C. Washburn, D., Summit, charged that Henry J. Berrodin, chief of the division, has been unable to administer the law properly because of interference from "higher up."

"There is something radically wrong with the pension division," Monahan said. "Mr. Berrodin is chief of the division in name only. If he had his way, this law would be properly administered. It's time this condition were corrected."

"What Gov. Davey orders is what is done in the pension division, not what Mr. Berrodin wants to do," Washburn said. "The governor bid for votes by increasing the penison payments in 1936, shortly before the election. Afterwards they had to be cut because there wasn't sufficient money."

Rep. William M. McCulloch, Republican floor leader, said the governor ordered pensions increased $10 a month before the 1936 election "for a purpose clear to the most ignorant."

McCulloch charged that in letters to pensioners, the governor "even led them to believe that he himself had furnished the money for this increase."

FOREST CEMETERY BOARD NAMES RITT TO VACANCY

Annual meeting of stockholders of the Forest Cemetery Assn., was held Tuesday night in the jury room of Common Pleas court. John S. Ritt was elected a trustee to succeed the late W. E. Crist. Guy Culp and C. A. Leist, whose terms expired, were re-named to the board. The three trustees serve three-year terms.

Other trustees of the association are E. S. Neuding, H. M. Crites, George Grand-Girard and Robert L. Brehmer. Organization meeting of the board of trustees will be held Friday.
